

Four men in suits are seated at a long wooden table on a stage, likely participating in a panel discussion or acting as moderators. They are positioned behind a table with water bottles and glasses.

A man in a dark suit is standing on the stage, presenting to the audience. Behind him is a large projector screen displaying a presentation slide. The slide contains the text "Escuela de Buñuel" and some images.

The audience is seated in blue chairs, viewed from behind. They are facing the stage where the presentation is taking place.